Be Ye Ghosts from Hell or Goblins Damned Ye Will Inherit the Saucer

by Gary Haden

David Jacobs has revealed a lot about his character in recent weeks by the ferocity with which he has attempted to conceal his role in dismantling hypnotic regression as a research tool in investigating the enigma of alien abduction. A sampling of recent radio and podcast interviews sketches David Jacobs as the paranormal world's equivalent of Dick Cheney.

For those not members of the faith-based UFO Community that tosses flowers before Jacobs's feet, David Jacobs is a "researcher" into the phenomenon of Alien Abduction. His main investigative tool is hypnotic regression. He used this tool on a young woman who calls herself Emma Woods. Under duress due to a purported pursuit of his person by Alien Human Hybrids, Jacobs implants a hypnotic suggestion in Woods's mind that she has multiple personality disorder in an effort to throw off the psychic alien goblins.

It is a plot straight from Buck Rogers. It certainly would make a good science fiction book. The problem is the methodology is straight from the pages of the MK Ultra playbook. It also stinks of the Satan Shrinks of Texas whose volcanic mixture of hypnotically weaving satanic ritual abuse narratives and multiple personality disorder diagnoses into the minds of suffering patients was emblematic of the barbarity modern psychology is still capable of.

For anyone, expert or layperson, to implant a psychiatric diagnosis into the mind of a person is an outrage. For that diagnosis to be multiple personality disorder, the treatment for which is worse than the disease, doubles the outrage. Had Emma Woods been stupid enough to play along and sought treatment for multiple personality disorder, the damage to her would have been permanent. But she was not possessed of the same bible-thumping, fundamentalistic faith in Jacobs that has characterized the vitriol of his defenders to date.

Emma Woods posted her tale on the Net. Jeremy Vaeni and Jeff Ritzmann picked up her story on their podcast Paratopia and questioned Jacobs's methods. (See episodes 55, 57, and 60.)

That's a no-no. Jacobs, like Cheney, to put it bluntly, does not wish to have his methods questioned.

In his recent interview of researcher Kevin Randle, Paul Kimball noted that Randle was "on the Paracast a little while ago with Gene Steinberg and Chris O'Brien and the guests were Budd Hopkins and David Jacobs. I listened to the episode. I wasn't actually on the episode because neither Jacobs or Hopkins would appear on the show with me. They threatened to walk unless I was not on the show. Gene was actually going to pull the show. He wasn't going to do it. And I said, you know what, I think it is important to get them on the record so I'll step back."

Enter the Birmes, publishers of UFO Magazine and broadcasters of a program entitled Future Theater. Bill and Nancy Birmes made the mistake of agreeing to publish a Jeremy Vaeni article on Emma Woods in UFO Magazine. That drew the Birmes into the controversy.

On their Future Theater show, Bill Birmes laid out his experience trying to pry from Jacobs his side of the Emma Woods story. He stated at 10:43 of the program in question that "[i]n multiple conversations with David Jacobs that I have had—I fully admit it—the basis of those conversations usually have started off with—Bill, why are you even asking questions about this story? By your asking questions about this story, you are in an adversarial relationship—you are taking her side by asking questions. And the fact is, you're [meaning Birmes is] not taking anybody's side except you're taking the side of what's true, what's accurate—not is she defaming somebody, not did David Jacobs do things he shouldn't have done, which he basically admits now that's the truth. But it is why are you being adversarial to me. And [as a reporter] you can't get around that."

The expectations Jacobs had of Bimes were that of the Guru toward his believers. Jacobs expected faith. Not inquiry. Jacobs, purportedly the scholar, does not wish peer review. And make no mistake, Bimes is his peer. He's a Phd, just like Jacobs. He has a law degree. There is nothing wrong with his academic pedigree.

And yet, questions were verboten.

"So for the magazine," Bill Bimes continued, "to dare to publish a story—I am furious about this—to dare to publish a story in which you question an icon and an iconic issue in the world of ufology—"

"He has basically begun the threatening of he's going to sue us," Nancy Bimes said. "And of course, we asked him to be on the show tonite and he refused. He is making noises. And I worry about that because we do not have deep pockets."

If the only response David Jacobs has to the meticulous critique that has emerged over the past months of his conduct in the Emma Woods case, from Emma herself and as a result of the hard work of Jeremy Vaeni and Jeff Ritzmann, is to threaten a law suit, his self-destruction is achieving a new nadir. The fact of the matter is, he has no case. If he pursues in court any of the investigators or reporters or experiencers who looked into the Emma Woods matter, he is going to humiliate himself on a massive scale. I understand it would be cheaper for him to pursue Emma's advocates than to battle Emma in an international venue, but still it would be useless for him.

The destruction he's seeking to stop would accelerate.

It would not end well for him. It would turn out to be a new Scopes Trial. The case hinges on hypnotic regression and its appropriate usage. Jacobs has no certification. He does not live in a state where the practice is regulated. There is no Board of Review. His status is similar to the stage hypnotist traveling the college circuit. He is not going to be able to defend implanting a hypnotic suggestion that Emma had multiple personality disorder on the basis that he was evading capture by Alien Human Hybrids.

He would necessarily have to prove the existence of Hybrid Aliens in court. That is the William Jennings Bryan hotseat. I doubt the court will allow it to get that far. It isn't a case where the existence of Santa Claus is proven by who the Post Office delivers the letters to Santa to. There is no deus ex machina that can save Jacobs from executing himself with either his religious faith in Hybrid Aliens or his Machiavellian, Svengali-capitalist moneymaking schemes.

"I'm going to go on record as saying, from what I can see of all this, I really do believe, he is being a writer and he is constructing a writing career," Nancy Bimes said on the show, "and I don't believe he believes a word of it because of the underpants, ok. ... Its too strong. The sexual component of control on these tapes is too strong."

"I think the guy is writing fiction. And I think its his career," Nancy Bimes continued. "Because his anger was all about I've lost my book. You know, my book was going to be all about this. I was going to break the story that they're communicating through instant message."

It doesn't matter who David Jacobs sues. At some point, he would have to explain himself.

Because he can't explain himself, he would end up hanging himself. It seems Jacobs understands this. He is, way too late, realizing the damage he has done to himself and he privately solicits restraint on the basis that his family and life are being destroyed. The plea he is entering in the court of back-channel opinion is not one he makes on scholarly grounds. It is a pity plea.

In other words, don't punish me for my crimes, I have mouths to feed. That is Jacobs's legal defense. The point is, Jacobs has been afforded every opportunity by Vaeni, Ritzmann, the Bimeses and god knows who else to submit his account of the Emma Woods case and in each instance he has refused to do so. Does he think critical examination of his actions is going to lighten up in court?

Not bloody likely.

"How dare he say that, you know, we're destroying him and destroying his family or any of that stuff," Vaeni said on Future Theater. "Yeah, you're [meaning Jacobs] destroying people, you're destroying your family, you're not even talking, you're not even speaking up and saying—I mean, if you've got another side to this—certainly he knew I was writing the article, he knew we were doing the shows, we were in contact for awhile, and he refused to say anything and then he goes on the Paracast, where he knows he's going to be softballed, and deals with it in about five minutes time. And he says, well, I don't want to talk about it."

The softballing Jacobs received on the show Vaeni mentions brought heated criticism down upon the Paracast's Steinberg but Steinberg patched up his differences with Vaeni and later leveled a critical assessment of the Jacobs scandal in a show featuring Paul Kimball. Little did we know at the time that apparently, if we are to take Paul Kimball at his word and I do, he's a voice of sobriety in a drunkard's paradise, Steinberg had some misgivings about the bullheaded attitude he was encountering with Jacobs and Hopkins.

And I'd be persuaded to afford Mr. Jacobs a little mercy in his pity plea were it not for the fact that someone who hamheadedly refuses to have his authority questioned, who oddly calls himself a scholar, and demands a free pass with the media is not by definition a beleaguered soul. For instance, it was not a weepy man in fear of economic destitution we hear on the Kate Valentine Show.

There, you hear a man who is confident in his project. There is not the slightest hint of duress about his convictions. He did not sound like a man at all troubled by the critique he's received. Certainly, Kate Valentine was not going to trouble him.

In fact, it was as if nothing had happened at all.

That is inappropriate. Something has happened. Because it is a faith-based community that believes in everything, as Randle pointed out in his interview with Kimball, the "UFO Community" might meet its end in throwing their souls into the pit Jacobs has dug. By bubbleheadedly worshiping Jacobs, they're scooping their credibility right out of the litter box and into the cotton candy.

Believing anything, whatever the price, can cost you dearly.

As you bull your way into court, Mr. Jacobs, perhaps you should consider the following inevitable scene at bar, where you would not be able to dictate terms.

Attorney for Emma Woods et al.: Your honor, we call the alien human hybrids to the stand.

There is the sound of crickets. Three days pass.

Attorney for David Jacobs et al.: Your honor, we've just received an instant message. TAKE US TO YOUR LEADER!

Attorney for Emma Woods et al.: Your honor, we rest our case.

If Jacobs were to sue the Birnes, they would have the right to discovery, which would make a mockery out of Jacob's sex-obsessed hybrid books and disgusting interactions recorded by Emma Woods. Good for the Birnes for standing up to him and letting the public know what went on behind the scenes.
