With Repeal of 14th Amendment, White People to Be Deported

January 20th, 2012

Jackson Elliot Montgomery, Washington Posted News Service

In a stunning development, Arizona Supreme Court Justice Eli Wantanabe MacPherson, a strict constructionist and radical right wing conservative, writing for the majority in a 9-0 decision, declared that, with the repeal of the 14th Amendment's anchor baby clause, the white population of Arizona in particular and America in general is "here illegally and will have to be deported."

"It is unfortunate that strict constructionist interpretations of the law must deliver this decision," MacPherson continued, "but White America is not legally entitled to occupy what has heretofore been deemed the territory of the United States. We are forced to conclude that, absent the anchor baby clause, white people have no right to reside in the United States. Deportation proceedings must therefore commence immediately."

The decision was rendered in the case of Whistle Horse versus Arizona. Charles Tecumseh Whistle Horse, professor of philosophy at Arizona Tech University, brought the case against the state in response to the recent repeal of the 14th Amendment.

"I meant it as a joke," Whistle Horse said. "I didn't expect to win. I mean, I fully agree with the decision. I've always known America to be white-occupied territory. I didn't expect the Supreme Court to agree. Especially with a conservative chief justice. I don't know how this is going to work."

Whistle Horse pointed out that the Anchor Baby Clause which provides for citizenship rights for humans born in the continental U.S. was a workaround devised to justify the presence of European races on the continent and to provide citizenship justifications for the babies of the founding fathers.

"It was only tangentially meant to provide citizenship to Africans abducted to America for the purposes of slave labor," Whistle Horse commented. "The real purpose was to justify the occupation of America by Europeans."

There is as yet no word on the construction of tent cities and deportation concentration camps for white deportation. Construction of such camps had heretofore usually been reserved for hispanics and, in the 1940s, the Japanese.

The above post is a complete and utter work of fiction. The author does not exist and the justice system in which the case was brought is a complete fantasy.

There is no resemblance to the justice system we now have in place nor is there likely to be any in the foreseeable future.

There is no logical reason why other nations should feel they can require us to give their children citizenship. There is no logical reason why citizenship should not follow the citizenship of your parents.

I'm not sure the author understands jurisdictional delineation. The state supreme court should not be the venue for federal issues.

But then, Arizona is trying to reserve the right to treat human beings the way it wishes to, whether or not the Constitution of the United States gives express written approval therefor.

So we see the little upscale concentration camps being constructed.

Thus, Arizona is in some kind of epileptic secessionist fit.
